

Improving Classroom Instruction through Documentation and Intervention Plans

This interactive presentation targets supervising administrators at the middle and high school level and is aimed at improving classroom instruction through proper documentation and intervention plans. The bottom line is to improve student success and this can be accomplished with a TINA plan that incorporates specific, quantifiable, and measurable components that ensure adherence and monitoring of the plan. Quality documentation is also necessary for the TINA plan to work. Participants will return to their campuses with viable techniques to improve instruction with this process.